

Wyketa Willis and Jerome McRae on Expectations for the Future

Audio Transcript

James Deutsch: So do you have any thoughts about what the future might look like?

[Jerome sighs]

Wyketa: I really, I don't really know. Because I am worried about my kids' future. Because I have to do homeschool again. This is my daughter's first time going to school, so she don't really understand why she has to be on a computer. My oldest son, he loves school. He misses teachers. He says he misses everybody. So, it's stressful. I don't know what the future looks like.

Jerome: I think, I'll be glad when it's over, but I know it's not [ending soon]. It might be another two years before everything is back to normal. That's just— That's just how it is.
